New Documentary Film puts Homeopathy in the Spotlight

ATMS welcome interview opportunities for
Peter Berryman, President of ATMS and Homeopathic Practitioner

Yesterday (Thursday 06 April) the world premiere of Just One Drop – a film about Homeopathy, aired for the first time in London, UK. The Australian debut is expected later in the year.

The Australian Traditional-Medicine Society (ATMS), Australia's largest national association representing professional practitioners of natural medicine, including accredited Homeopaths, anticipates that this film will open up a new conversation on Homeopathy, and particularly on the National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC) report into the effectiveness of Homeopathy that was released in 2015.

Peter Berryman, President of ATMS, welcomes the opportunity to provide commentary and be interviewed about the practice of Homeopathy in Australia.

Peter Berryman is qualified in Naturopathy, Homeopathy, Education, and as a Medical Scientist, Peter Berryman has spent 31 years in private practice so far. He has lectured in Homeopathy since 1990, and Medical Sciences since 2006. Peter has been an ATMS Board member since 2007 and sits on the Academic Review Committee as Chair, as well as serving on the Executive Committee, Finance Committee, Regulatory Committee, Continuing Professional Education Committee, Marketing Committee and the Complaints Committee.
